The Kobayashi-Maskawa Institute for the Origin of Particles and the Universe (KMI) was founded in 2010 in order to solve the fundamental mysteries of elementary particle physics and the universe and to develop a new frontier in physics by the collaboration between theoretical particle physics groups, experimental particle physics groups, cosmology and theoretical astrophysics groups, experimental astrophysics groups, and mathematical physics groups including string theorists. The Kobayashi-Maskawa Institute for the Origin of Particles and the Universe (KMI), Nagoya University seeks full-time, non-tenure-track, research assistant. The successful candidates will engage in research at one of the following Divisions within the Center for Theoretical Studies: Theoretical Particle Physics (Hadron Physics): String Theory and Mathematics: Cosmology and Theoretical Astrophysics.
